Where the data comes from:

If you have selected a specific case type, the report will only search those types of cases. Otherwise, it will search all case types. It searches for open cases to determine if the case has been open longer than the minimum numbers of days you put in the criteria.

If you say yes to the “Calculate days from filing” option, the report will start counting the 180 days with the case status that means filed.

If you say no to the “Calculate days from filing” option, the report will start counting the 180 days with the date of the last hearing.
